Your practice

Please let us know about your experience as a writer and/or theatre-maker:

We would like to know what creative projects you've worked on as a writer or in other roles, as well as any training or development opportunities you've engaged in. Please be clear about whether you have had any previous commissions.
(up to 250 words)

What type of theatre do you like to make?

We would like to know about your writing style, and any themes or approaches that influence your writing.
(up to 250 words)

If you'd like to share your website or links to any current/previous work, please do so here:

Please note: this is not essential.

Please attach one example of your previous writing work.

This could be an extract of at least 15 pages or a complete script, something that gives us insight into your writing style. If you have any issues uploading, please complete the remaining questions and send your script to jordan.blackwood@aberdeenperformingarts.com.

The idea

What is the title of the play you're proposing?

This can be a working title at the moment.

Tell us about your play idea, including the narrative, theme(s) and envisaged production style:

*This is your opportunity to pitch the play you'd like to write as part of the commission. Let us know what the story is, how many actors it involves, what has inspired it and what form it might take.
(up to 750 words)*

Have you written/developed any of the play already or is it an idea at this stage?

*If you have undertaken any development, let us know what the process has been so far.
(up to 250 words)*

If you have any ideas at this stage, please give an indication of any creatives you might want to work with to realise the production:

*This could be names of collaborators you'd like to work with or a list of roles you envisage requiring to bring the production to life.
(up to 250 words)*

Your connection to the North-East

Tell us about your connection to the North-East of Scotland:

*If you're based in the region, let us know how long you've lived locally. Otherwise, please detail what your connection to Aberdeen and/or the North-East is.
(up to 250 words)*

Anything else?

If there's anything else you'd like to mention that hasn't been covered above, let us know here:
